Community leaders declare war on drugs

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

A Monday evening meeting of community leaders at St. Rose de Lima cafeteria resulted in seven proposals for action against local drug sales and use.

The group of some 40 residents will present the proposals to the community during a Monday, August 17 town meeting.

The intent, organizer the Rev. Ken Hamilton explained, is to settle on at least one concrete idea by which the community can unify and fight to eliminate drugs, and the resulting violence and crime, from Hancock County.

The majority of people present were from Bay St. Louis. The recent death of Bay Catholic Elementary teacher Lucinda "Cindy" Acker has acted as catalyst drawing neighbors and friends together to declare war on drugs, said Rev. Hamilton.

It was repeated over and over during the Monday meeting that drug users and sellers openly gather at the corner of Sycamore and St. Francis streets; St. Francis Street and Washington Avenue; and Washington Avenue and Old Spanish Trail.

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Frank McNeil stated marked and unmarked cars periodically patrol this area both day and night.

He added, "Occasionally we do make some good cases, but the majority of those arrested are back out on the streets in no time."

McNeil said there are other areas of concern in Bay St. Louis, that are not in predominantly black areas.

Sheriff Ronnie Peterson stated a problem lies within the judicial system, as many drug offenders are returned to the streets within just a few months of their convictions because of overcrowded jails.

He commented, in Hancock County there is one probation/parole officer who supervises up to 1,000 people. "He cannot possibly check on every one each month," he said.

Pastor F.L. Fields of Greater Mt. Zion African Methodist Episcopal Church spoke of ram-unless called upon.

Law enforcement was fully represented as along with McNeil and Peterson, Waveland Police Chief James Varnell was present.

Varnell commented the police departments know where the problems exist, and who the

Bay-Waveland school board may refinance long-term bonds

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland school board is considering refinancing some of the district's long-term bonds to save money.

At its Monday meeting, the board discussed, then took under advisement, two proposals for refinancing the bonds. According to CPA Rick Logan, the new bonds will pay off the debt from the old bonds when those bonds are called in 1998.

Logan said the old bonds were financed with an interest rate that ranged from seven to 10 percent, while the new interest rate will probably range from three to six percent. This means a possible savings of about $100,000 in interest costs for the school district.

The school board asked attorney Lucien Gex to find out more about the proposals and have a report ready for the September meeting, then took the matter under advisement until then.

BUSINESS AND FINANCE

The board approved an amended 1991-1992 district budget of $8,016,363; a list of sole source suppliers; a bid of six-percent interest from Merchants Bank on a $200,000 short-term note for repairs and other work in the district; several bids for cafeteria food items and grease trap cleaning; and a bid of $32,996 from Waters Truck and Tractor Co. for the purchase of a school bus for handicapped students.

The board also rejected a bid for cafeteria soap and detergent because of inequalities in the submitted bids.

Hancock North Central Elementary prepares to open under two principals

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Principals Bettye McLeod and Denise Wilkinson are very excited as they prepare Hancock North Central Elementary for the first day of school.

This year the two administrators will split control over the 800-plus students, restructuring HNCE into primary (K-3) and intermediate (4-6) levels.

"Last year we shared responsibility for all grades," McLeod stated. "This year we will specialize, each having control over specific grades.

"This will enable each of us to work with each aspect of a single student, as well as work with a smaller number of children and teachers. Four hundred names are a lot easier to learn than 800."

Previously, McLeod and Wilkinson shared duties. For example, one administrator would address the discipline for all students, while the other supervised all academic records.

"When a child would come to me with a failing subject," Wilkinson explained, "Mrs. McLeod and I would have to confer, as so much information was split between us."

The restructuring will allow each principal all information affecting a student.

Another benefit, they said, is the ability to concentrate on program development aimed at specific age groups.

McLeod, primary school principal, will concentrate on the fundamental needs of those students from kindergarten to third-grade, the formative years.

WRITING TO READ

Primary students will experience the Writing to Read computer system for the first time this year. HNCE is the last elementary school in the county to receive the innovative teaching program.

Cyclist spreads message of Indian heritage on tour of 26 states

BY T. H. (DOC) TOUPS

Waveland received a colorful visitor Monday when Joe Eagle, a 61-year-old Cherokee Indian bicycled into town. A longtime country and gospel musician, he was known to many fans as "Cherokee Joe," and sometimes goes by the handle of "Little Eagle."

Joe is on a self-conceived mission; he bicycles around the country spreading the word of Indian culture, heritage and tradition.

Into his second year of this calling, he's been through 26 states and spoken to countless school groups, churches and Indian organizations.

A wiry and tough-looking man, Joe could pass for someone 15 years his junior. "I've never been to a white doctor," he said and explained that he goes into the woods in search of herbs and plants to cure his infrequent illnesses. Two years of bicycling around the country has undoubtedly contributed to his good health.

One of the messages he promotes is that the system of federal reservations is the Indian's greatest nemesis. They, he munity," he stated. "The people have to come together and report these activities when witnessed."

Hamilton asked the meeting participants to break into smaller discussion groups and following a limited amount of time, commit to one suggestion. Many ideas circulated and a final choice of the seven proposals follows:

- satellite police stations, to be supported by an additional $5 fee on fines;
- a mandatory drug education program;
- an expanded DARE program which would include education and intervention;
- "taking back the streets" through concerted efforts by community and church leaders;
- the training of community leaders, who in turn, would train members of the public for an expanded crimestoppers organization;

—a Christian community center for the development of family activities; and —a hotline/crimestoppers program.

Following further discussion, the group chose to not select one program, but to present the proposals to the community to allow public input and selection.

Representatives of the cities were Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre and councilmen Charles Scianna and Thomas Farve; and Waveland Mayor Stella Fiolot.

Along with many local teachers, those representing education were: principals David Kopf of Hancock High School; Clementine Williams of Charles B. Murphy Elementary; Ann Allen of Bay Catholic Elementary; and Sister Donella of Our Lady Academy.

The religious community was represented by First Missionary Baptist, Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic, St. Augustine Seminary, Valena C. Jones Methodist, Macedonia Baptist, Word of Faith Christian Fellowship (Bay St. Louis); Lutheran Church of the Pines (Waveland); and Greater Mt. Zion (Pearlington).

Also present were various concerned citizens and parish members from St. Rose de Lima.

Smiles were present on many faces as the meeting broke up. Rev. Hamilton said he felt a powerful force present as so many came together to address the multi-faceted problem of drugs, crime and violence.

Varnell commented, "This," spreading his arm across the room, "is the only way drugs will be eliminated. Community involvement, as you see here tonight, is the answer."

Fight against drugs meeting set Monday

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis will host a community meeting 7 p.m. Monday to plan a course of action to eliminate illegal drugs in the community.

The murder of Bay St. Louis elementary teacher Lucinda "Cindy" Lizana Acker has prompted the Rev. Ken Hamilton to call for united law enforcement, civic, educational and public efforts in the fight against drug use throughout Hancock County.

Residents of the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, Hancock County and adjoining areas are asked to attend to discuss and vote on proposals.

Mary Stokes of the Irlen Clinic, instructs Mitch Kegley, a teacher at North Bay Elementary School, on how to test for scotopic syndrome. Nine-year-old volunteer Neil Favre participated in the two-day program at Bay High, where 15 teachers from Hancock County and Bay-Waveland School District received instruction from Lee D. Stokes, Ph.D. Stokes explained the syndrome to be a visual perception problem which causes words to float and move, and not a visual problem treatable by an optometrist. Sherry Ponder, director of the special education department for both districts, secured permission for the training. The condition affects an estimated 15 percent of the population. "The reservations are a thorn in my side," he continued. He believes that the government should divide the land into private ownership and provide greater educational opportunities and incentives for Indians to participate in the private sector economy. He would also like to see a national Indian holiday come into being.

Joe isn't planning on spending very much time on the Coast and said that he intended to leave Tuesday morning to head north. "I'd like to head to Philadelphia, Miss. There are a lot of Choctaws there," he said before mounting his bike once again.

Bay earns first $$$ from gaming

BY JANET MCQUEEN
The City of Bay St. Louis has reaped its first profits from dockside gaming industry.

City Clerk Kay Johnson reported receiving a check from the State Tax Commission for approximately $66,000 paid by Casino Magic.

The check represents taxes levied on each gaming device in the development, said Johnson. Although the city retains the entire amount, it is first channeled through the State Tax Commission like sales tax.

Mayor Eddie Favre anticipates receiving around $125,000 a year once the casino is fully operational. The $66,000 figure is based on the development's Phase I operation.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Hancock County Circuit Clerk Pamela Metzler has really been busy for the past several days with final details as chairman of the Mississippi Circuit Clerks Convention.

The convention, starting today will be held at the Diamondhead Days Inn and will bring some 150 people to our county for four days.

This is the first ever Circuit Clerks Convention to be held in Hancock County, and I think Pam should be complimented for all the work she has done and for bringing this convention to town.

I know she did a lot of work in preparation along with the deputy clerks in her office, but Hancock County will greatly benefit from the additional revenue from the visiting Chancery Clerks and their families.

Registration gets underway this afternoon with a big hayride to McLeod Park along with a 'Big John' Fish Fry and dance.

A lot of the state's leaders will be on hand for the convention. Saturday night's banquet sponsored by the Circuit Clerks Association, will have U.S. Congressman Gene Taylor giving the address.

Along with the business end of the convention, Pam has also arranged for some special activities in addition to the hayride, such as a seafood jamboree and a mini-Mardi Gras parade, sightseeing and shopping. (I know our merchants will like the shopping bit).

I am hoping that all of the visitors for the convention will have a great time and come back to Hancock County.

The cost of clothing can be a big problem for many parents, especially those of have several children in school.

Those who may be looking for extra special bargains in clothing for back-to-school and not have too much money, may want to consider the Goodwill store in Bay St. Louis.

The Goodwill store has a wide variety of clothing and may have just the size and style for your child.

True, the items may have already been used, but since youngsters grow so fast, some items may have been worn only a few times.

The Goodwill store is located in the Bay Mall at the corner of Highway 90 and Dunbar Avenue in Bay St. Louis.

Last Saturday night several fishermen made a good catch as was evidenced by the big mess they left along the roadway at the mouth of the Jourdan River.

All that it would have taken was a little effort to have at least thrown the unused portions of the fish overboard.

It doesn't take long for flies and unbearable odors to come from the remains of the fish in this summer heat.

Because of the amount of remains in two big piles in the area, apparently a large net was used to bag the fish and who knows, they may have been illegally caught.

People should have respect for others. What a sorry example the careless ones set for youngsters who may accompany their parents on an outing along the beach to picnic or fish.

No matter how we look at it, leaving the remains of fish along our roadways and beaches is a litter problem.

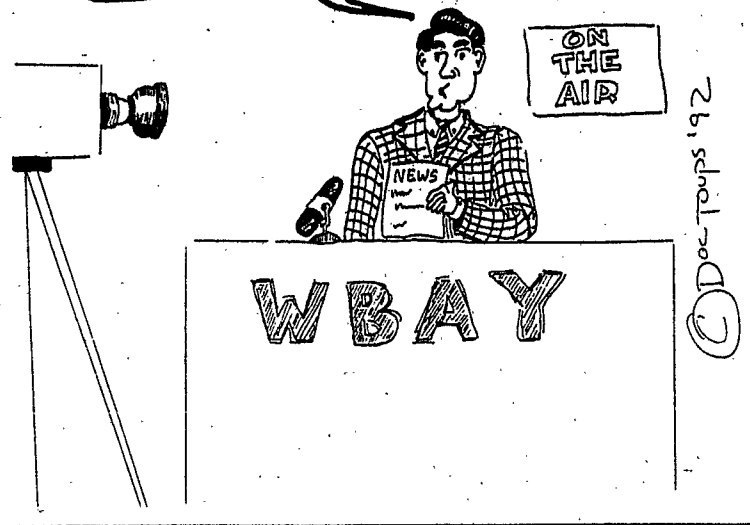

All it will really take is for a few citations to be issued and stiff fines imposed and the word may get around.

We have a litter problem in Hancock County and it needs to be addressed from every direction.

Governor unveils programs at fair without funding means

Gov. Kirk Fordice's legislative program which he rolled out the other day, at the Neshoba County Fair was loaded with some big-ticket items and not a hint of how they could be paid for.

If he were a Democrat, it would be called "pie-in-the-sky" and he would be accused of being a "tax and spend liberal." But being as how he is a Reagan Republican, Fordice must believe like RR that you can have guns and butter at the same time and no new taxes. We all know, however, from the legacy of the Reagan years when the national debt was more than tripled, that you can't have it both ways.

Without batting an eye, Fordice said he wants to "rehabilitate" bridges throughout the state as though he could wave a magic wand and it could be done. Later in a news conference, Fordice said it was his idea that all sub-standard bridges statewide should be replaced.

He's talking about something that would be a massive undertaking. Just two years ago, it was estimated that the tab for replacing only county sub-standard bridges would be around $2 billion (yes BILLION).

Some wags immediately suggested that Fordice, having been in the bridge building business before he became governor, might be taking care of his old friends in the construction industry.

Pressed later on how it might be paid for, Fordice had some vague response about getting financial help from the federal government, and the state's share could be raised out of savings from government efficiency.

That's the oldest dodge in the world to say good old government efficiency is going to produce some great windfall of money with which to do wonderful things without raising taxes.

The reorganization and consolidation of nearly two dozen agencies during the Mabus Administration, which had been heralded as the way to save $55-$60 million later was shown in a PEER Committee study to have only saved $1 million while also lowering quality of several services.

So if the replacing of faulty bridges had to wait on Fordice's government efficiency savings, Mississippians would be driving over bad bridges way into the next century.

Fordice got some of his best response from the claque of supporters brought in to hear him when he talked about welfare reform and taking able-bodied persons off welfare and "put them to work."

The logical question is: What work? Are you going to provide jobs for them?

The governor was asked if he had some plan in mind to launch a public works program, a la Depression-era WPA to make jobs for those coming off welfare. That might work, it did pretty well before, Fordice told this reporter.

But when it was pointed out that such a program would cost money, and where was it going to come from, Fordice ignored the question as though he didn't hear it.

A collective moan was heard throughout the resort and tourist industry when Fordice proposed what he called a "surcharge" on hotels and restaurants to raise money for the state's tourist promotion program. Of course, it was no "tax," just a tack-on, he said, and nobody would object.

Unclear was how the tourism surcharge would apply in the dozen or more resort areas around the state now which already have a special room and restaurant tax, most of them dedicated to some specific purpose, such as the Coast Coliseum in Harrison County.

Evidently the Fordice plan would hit patrons who eat at the Chicken Fish Restaurant in Bogue Chitto for the tourism tax. And he has been trying to defeat lawmakers who voted for the sales tax hike, which is basically dedicated to education.

Fordice is also marching into that thicket where many legislators and some governors before have been frustrated—the perennial "plan" to reduce the high cost of automobile license tags. His proposal is to cut them one-half by "diversion of state revenues" to replace loss of local personal property taxes on cars.

There's no way that's going to happen unless some tax at the state level is raised to compensate for loss to the state treasury.

A number of the other proposals in Fordice's menu are the kinds of reform in archaic governmental procedures that have been pushed in the past, and will not be difficult to find substantial legislative support.

But whether Fordice is going to elect any significant number of legislators in November who are committed to this platform is extremely doubtful.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Hang gliding should be allowed at Stennis Air Park

To the Editor:

I address all pilots or anyone who has looked up at the sky and dreamed of being there. It is a place of solitude and adventure. Once you have had a chance to count your dreams and fall in love with them, you can only find happiness in life with them. To be able to conquer your dreams is not a dream, it is an effort!

My first flight in the back seat of a friend's Stinson aircraft, as a child, will never be forgotten. Throughout my lifetime of thrill seeking, aviation has become a true love! I have owned airplanes and have flown different types of aviation from lighter than air to general aviation.

Today, along with pilots ranging from military, commercial and civil aircraft, I enjoy the rewards of hang gliding. It is a challenge I can't compare. Although everyone is different!

I started hang gliding in 1989 at a school in Georgia. I signed up for lessons which were certified by the United States Hang Gliding Association. The lessons are rigorous and instructed by professionals.

United States Hang Gliding Association (USHGA) members earn ratings just like any other aviators by skillful tasks and written examinations. USHGA members also comply with federal aviation administration "FAA" rules "FARS."

Hang gliding is powerless flight, dependant on air currents and thermal activity. There are several techniques of launching a glider into the air. The most popular means of launching in this region is towing.

There are thousands of USHGA pilots in the United States who tow, hence the program has fallen under close scrutiny to insure a safe flying site for all aviators neighboring our local airports.

Throughout the United States, towing gliders has become federally recognized as a bonafide aeronautical activity and must be treated as such. The FAA allows towing gliders on its federally funded runways.

Stennis International Airport in Hancock County receives federal funds for its construction; therefore it must allow all types of federally recognized activities.

Stennis International is governed by an airport committee which refuses to recognize any USHGA pilot.

The committee feels it can ignore its obligation to comply with the federal grant contract. I along with other USHGA members in this area feel discriminated against.

Although I have received attention in Washington DC and our problems are being investigated, I am very disappointed with the paper chase I have had to endure!

All pilots, regardless of what they fly, must unite as a single entity for the advantage of greater numbers to voice opinions to the populace and the government. Without this unity, we will all be swept aside and put on the back burner as the lead important issue on any governing agenda!

Patriot political party organizing

Dear Editor,

Ross Perot is gone, but we, the people who supported him, are still here, and so are the ideals which brought us together in the first place.

We are organizing a third party on a national level. We are the Patriot Party. Our goals are:

—Cut the size and cost of government. Our government hires 20,000 new employees a month in these times!

—Eliminate PAC money to politicians. They buy votes. They corrupt.

—Produce an energy policy now that cuts our dependance on foreign oil.

—All federal employees must abide by the same laws as every citizen: They are subject to the same penalties including loss of retirement benefits for crimes they commit.

—The president must have line item veto power to cut the pork from every bill sent to him.

—No government employee may work as an agent for an American PAC for 7 years after leaving government service. He may never work as an agent of a foreign government or a foreign industry in his lifetime.

—White House, Congressional and Supreme Court staffing will be cut each year by at least 20 percent for at least 2 years in succession.

—The head of every governmental bureau, department and commission will be compelled to appear before a Blue Ribbon Committee to explain in detail and have passed upon, their staffing. Unnecessary jobs, bureau, departments, and commissions will be eliminated promptly.

—A vote of the Electorate will dictate directly what the people believe a retired official should receive as benefit from public coffers. It's your money!

These, Fellow Americans, are the issues. Don't let the office seekers confuse us about what is important.

We have lost control of our government, and that is just the way the politicians want it.

Join the Patriots in this campaign to take back our government! We will be speaking to you in the future.

ren are permitted the creativity believed to be necessary to instill a fondness for the written language.

McLeod explained, the completed language is taught from the very beginning. The children learn the 42 phonemes or sounds of the language. They are given literature and tapes which review and build upon the learned sounds. What they learn is reinforced through computer usage and the written art.

"As a child babbles before it speaks," she added, "so children creatively spell before they write."

Wilkinson interjected, "Their writing is acceptable at the pre-writing stage, so they are not fearful of acceptance of their work. The rules of grammar and spelling are taught as they go along."

"In the intermediate level, grades four through six, we polish the skills learned at the primary level."

The two principals said the whole language approach is not a new idea, as it was introduced by early educators.

McLeod said she recently learned the resurgence of the whole language approach came about after it was discovered that New Zealand, a practitioner of the concept, had the highest literacy rate in the world.

"Many teachers have been teaching whole language long before it became popular. In practice, it simply means allowing the child to learn."

"What sold me," McLeod stated, "was the response of the children and the teachers."

"It is challenging for the teachers. The program allows the teachers to use their own creativity and resourcefulness. They come in all bubbly."

"I think it is a nice answer to teacher burn out."

Children learn to interpret through the whole language approach, McLeod emphasized. "You can take a book, and each child will interpret the story in a different way. The approach does away with ditto sheets and right or wrong answers."

"There is concentration on skills, but the emphasis is on the child's response."

Wilkinson, too, anticipates changes in teaching methods as she plans to tackle what she terms the 'drop out rate'.

"Fifth grade is where we begin to lose students," she said. "The children begin to become aware of their place in society. They wonder, 'Where do I fit in? Am I accepted?' These are major factors in motivating their progress."

Wilkinson said at the intermediate level, the practice of whole language use through journal writing and creative expression allows the students the means to explore their individuality and comment on life experiences.

"It is the average student we need to concentrate on," she commented. "There are special programs for the ones below average and in need of assistance. There are programs for the gifted to challenge their abilities. But there are no programs to help move the average student up."

"These are the ones we lose. They, too, need assistance in reaching their potential."

She added intermediate teachers have been asked to schedule a blank half hour time slot per day for the development of music or art classes. "Even if I have to go in and instruct the students myself."

Wilkinson said perhaps this time will be used for journal writing one day, and for music or art another day.

McLeod and Wilkinson display obvious respect for each other's abilities. There is a cooperative effort between the two women which places the emphasis of praise upon the school and not upon themselves.

"The students" are foremost in every sentence uttered. Each woman harbors secret wishes for HNCE.

Wilkinson said she wishes to one day have a computer for every student. McLeod, too, has aspirations for the future; but for the present her concerns revolve around the restructuring of HNCE.

The physical separation of the two administrative offices have kept the women occupied these past weeks.

The paper trails required by the state needed to be duplicated, and a central work room was created for the sharing of services such as the copier.

The school library, cafeteria and gymnasium will continue to serve all students, as they do at the junior/senior high school complex.

"Here we are creating a meeting room for the children," McLeod explained as she walked into a semi-renovated space, still divided by partition walls. "In the past we would have to use the gym, interrupting physical education classes any time we needed to gather a grade."

Fish stories

Bay St. Louis fishermen Brian Page (left), Mike Griffith and Renae Bernard display the two speckled trout — 3½ and five pounds — and the 44½-inch, 45-pound black drum they caught while angling off the Bay bridge Monday morning around 6:30. The drum, which Bernard caught on light tackle and 17-pound test, put up a 20-minute fight. "I thought I had hooked a stingray," Bernard said. "It didn't want to come up; it stayed along the bottom." ## FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. This past week it was hot enough to deep fry a snowball without melting the ice. Now that is some hot.

One of the best fishin' rigs I observed this past week was tied up to the bulkhead at Bordage fish camp. It seemed to be the ideal setup for fishin' in this hot weather. It was called a "party barge."

The skipper of the party barge was none other than Gerald Necaise. Gerald stated the barge was 24 ft. long and about eight feet wide. The most important feature of the barge was the top that extended from the rear of the boat to slightly past mid-ship. The top was about six feet high and there appeared to be a cool breeze present, even though the rocks were melting in the parking lot around the launch.

The party barge was generously equipped with large ice chests that Gerald informed me where only for the numerous fish he was going to catch. Of course Gerald thought maybe he could add such things as mineral water, and things like that, to the ice chests, just for medical reasons. They did not want to become dehydrated while out on their fishin' trip.

I never did find out if any fish were caught off of this rig, even though I did notice at least one fishin' rod on board the boat.

A little farther down the bulkhead at Bordages, there was a young family from Houston, Texas by the name of Morise. Rachel (age 6) was having a mighty struggle with a powerful Pin fish. She was able to land the fish, all by herself, after a tug of war that lasted about 30 seconds. The rest of the family, Kathryn (4) and Erin (2), supported Rachel with verbal encouragement. Karen and Ken Morise (mom and dad), who are staying at their summer home in Waveland, promised to cook Rachel's catch for her supper.

After Rachel landed her Pin fish, Ringo came over to the pier to ask me to do an interview with his trained live shrimp. Since it appeared maybe the heat was having an adverse effect on the conversations at the boat launch, I decided to turn down Ringo's request to interview his live shrimp and "beat feet" out of there as fast as possible.

The wade fishing has slowed down a little this past week. I have noticed the number of fishermen has been about steady but the catches have been reduced.

The best time to go wade fishing this past week, has been right about daylight. There has been a rising tide in the morning and normally this has been the most productive type of tide for the "get in the water" fishermen. Those who have gotten into action real early, I mean real, real early, have been able to bring home at least enough fish for breakfast.

The best bait for the large trout has been 3- to 4-inch live mullet. The most productive bait overall has been live shrimp—when you can find them. Some trout have been caught on charrtruse beetles about 24 inches under a popping cork.

If you use an artificial bait, such as beatles, remember, you gotta work your bait. By working your bait I mean the bait has to have some movement to attract the fish. An artificial bait is supposed to look and act just like a real live bait would act and look. So give your line a jerk or give your cork a pop every couple of three or four seconds to make your bait attractive to the fish.

One last thing about the wade fishin'. Well, maybe more than one last thing. Don't forget to wear long pants and shoes when you go out into the water as the eeyyoow fish just love bear skin almost as much as they love to hear people yell eeyyoow.

Finally, the absolute last thing. You gotta get out into water at least three feet deep if you want to catch any fish at all. Your chances of catching any fish in water that is less than three feet deep are slim and none.

The report from the Ladner pier this week indicates that family fun is still the "in thing" at this fishin' location.

Chloe Schornick (9) of Waveland, reports she was able to catch and land one 14-inch Ladyfish and one Pin fish.

Jeremy Watson (15) reports he caught three Jack fish, one of which was 22 inches long. He also caught one flounder, five Spanish speaking fish, and one 22-inch Red.

Matthew Thompson (10) said everybody around him was pretty good, especially his friend Zeke Boone (13), who just caught a nice flounder.

The prize for the biggest fisherman on the pier (ratio wise) has to go to Kristy Meree (6) of St. Rose, La.; Kristy was using a rod that was two and one-half feet long. She was only three feet tall.

The Adams family of Metairie brought their two daughters, Christine (18) and Robbin (22). These young ladies found the pier an ideal place to set up their umbrellas and read books.

The American Legion pier was the home base of the Gulf Coast Sportsmen Club fishing rodeo this past Saturday. There were so many young people having fishin' fun, that this old Turtle thought he had died and gone to heaven. There were at least 300 youngsters who either entered the rodeo or came to see friends who entered. It was great!

I was on hand to observe at least one of the entries being caught by a young fisherman, Kristy Sand (9). Kristy used dead shrimp on the bottom, right next to the piling, to catch a drum that was at least 12 inches long. Kristy's rod was bent in half for at least 30 seconds before amid much screaming, hooting and hollering, her prize catch was landed on the

SECTION B

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, AUGUST 13, 1992-1B

Reunion time!

Bay High alumni/students invited to three-day Diamondhead festivities

BY JANET MCQUEEN
Reservations are arriving from several states for the "Best Ever Reunion" of all persons who attended Bay High School, according to chairman Hubert Cowand.

The Bay High Athletic Club is coordinating the event. All former students over 21 years of age are invited. Three days of activities are planned September 18-20 at Diamondhead Country Club and Yacht Club. Various functions are priced separately. Kicking off the weekend is a "Get Reacquainted Party" in the Terrace Room at Diamondhead Country Club, 7:30 p.m. until midnight. Hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar will be featured. Saturday at 11:30 a.m. there will be a "Yacht Club Lunch."

Two bands will rock the Country Club Saturday night, with music to appeal to all age groups.

"Art Cissell and the Stardusters" is a 17-piece ensemble playing the Big Band sounds of Glenn Miller, Count Basie and other popular music from the 30's, 40's and 50's.

"Doctor Rock and the Interns" is an eight-piece classic Rock and Roll band well versed in tunes from the '50's to the 90's.

The Stardusters will play in the Coral Room and Doctor Rock in the Terrace Room, according to Cowand. He stressed the necessity of reservations, as both of the rooms have limited capacity.

A ticket includes admission and hors d'oeuvres. In all probability, the event will be sold out, said Cowand.

Saturday night the 50th anniversary class, the Class of 1942, will be honored. Members of the Athletic Club's "Blue, Gold and White Club" will be recognized for their contributions. The club has spent more than $27,000 on improvements at the high school and stadium.

On Sunday, an informal

"Farewell Brunch" is scheduled at the Country Club from 10 a.m. until noon. "Everyone is encouraged to make a speech, a toast, offer a word or two or relate some funny event dating back to school days or since," said Cowand. For reservations or for additional information, call one of the following: Hubert

4S camp teaches youth respect for self and others

BY T.H. (DOC) TOUPS
Gulfside United Methodist Assembly on Beach Blvd. in Waveland hosted the Shabazz School of Service and Success summer camp this past Sunday through Wednesday.

The service organization's target group are 11- to 14-year-old black youths from the greater Gulf Coast area, according to co-founder Ya-Sin Shabazz.

The group, currently in its third year, was formed by Shabazz and Daryl Booker. Booker left the area last year and was unable to continue his participation.

Shabazz, 22, attended St.

Stanislaus and Yale University. He holds degrees in economics and political science. "I wanted to give something back to the community," Shabazz said, explaining his motivation for starting the organization.

The summer day camp program stresses several points: 1. good decision making ability; 2. leadership skills; and 3. increasing self-esteem.

An "umbrella" concept which ties these points together is the idea of participants respecting each other and respecting themselves. In practical terms, these ideas are expressed through workshops, seminars, guests speakers and interaction with group counselors.

The seminars address issues of black history, slavery, general thinking processes and setting one's sights on college. Guest speakers Dr. Larry Heller and Edith Back spoke to the participants on the subject of AIDS and its prevention.

A workshop on English grammar was presented, in preparation for an essay writing exercise, which campers did toward the end of their stay.

Shabazz is especially proud of a new idea incorporated into the program for the first time this year: They are using students from previous years to act as junior counselors to the younger children. Sam Sheppard, Ricky Lewis Jr., Paco Vontour and Tony Coles, all of Bay St. Louis, performed counseling duties in this session.

"We want to express to the younger ones that we've learned," said Sheppard.

Lewis explained that, "Because we are so close in age, the students tend to talk to us more freely." With a grin he added, "But they also tend to joke around more!"

All four young men agreed that important functions they served were to help warn their charges against the dangers of drugs, teenage pregnancy and other elements of destructive behavior in their community.

They were also very well aware that some of their current students would be next year's junior counselors and they took this responsibility seriously.

"Self-confidence is a function of self-respect," said Paco Vontour. It is a message they all hope to pass down to successive generations.

Junior counselors Sam Sheppard, 16, Ricky Lewis Jr., 15, Paco Vontour, 15, and Tony Coles, 15

McDowell attends USM French Summer Institute

Six Gulf Coast residents were among 25 French teachers participating in the 1992 Summer Institutes for Secondary Foreign Language Teachers July 5-31.

The summer institutes in Spanish and French are funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Gulf Coast participants included Dieter Miller of Biloxi, Brigitte Williams of Gulfport, Alice L. Hammond of Pascagoula, Helga Arrington of Gautier, Lindsey Scott of Ocean Springs and Kathryn MacDowell of Bay St. Louis.

The institutes are provided in response to new admission requirements to the state's universities. Foreign language requirements included in Project '95 mean many Mississippi teachers must upgrade their skills and knowledge, according to the Mississippi State Department of Education and the Institutions of Higher Learning.

The agencies worked

Kathryn MacDowell, together to secure funding for the two institutes. Each was limited to 25 participants. Elizabeth Anglin, foreign languages and literature instructor at the University of Southern Mississippi, led the French Institute at USM.

Registering

Kyle Ahlers of Hancock County waits for further instructions during early registration at Pearl River Community College. Ahlers, a PRC sophomore, was among hundreds of students who took advantage of early registration.

Thompson initiated into Alpha Zeta at Miss. State

The Mississippi chapter of Alpha Zeta, an honorary agricultural fraternity, recently initiated 58 MSU students into the organization. This year's group was the largest in the fraternity's history at MSU.

Among those initiated was Gary Thompson of Bay St. Louis.

Mississippi State University's Alpha Zeta chapter, chartered in 1928, promotes excellence in agriculture and community service. Initiates must be in the upper two-fifths of their class academically and must have completed one year in an agriculture-related field at MSU.
